MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN

Prof. Joseph M. N. Kakooza Chairman

Once again as at the end of every year, it is my pleasure and honour to present this message to our readers in and outside Uganda on all matters, albeit briefly, concerning the Uganda Law Reform Commission (the Commission) with reference to the year 2009.

Accessibility to Justice

The slogan of the Commission is: Law Reform for Good Governance and Sustainable Development. This slogan captures the gist of the functions of the Commission. The end result of those functions is to promote accessibility to justice for all persons in Uganda irrespective of social, economic, political or professional status or nationality. This is the essence of good governance and without it there cannot be genuine and sustainable development.

The Utility of Advocacy Workshops

In the pursuit of its mandate to constantly update the law and to carry out research in all areas of law and propose amendments or new laws, the Commission has, in the year under review, as ever before, continued to institute task forces and conducted advocacy workshops with a view of tapping a wide spectrum of ideas for the improvement of the law and legal services in society. It is pleasing to report that the Commission is very grateful to the honourable members of the superior courts and of Parliament for their cooperation with it in ensuring that the law that has been proposed or enacted, as the case may be, is satisfying the intention of the law maker and the felt needs of society. It is only then that the law is meaningfully enforceable. The Commission has therefore engaged itself quite significantly in advocacy workshops.

The Challenge of the Public Taking the Law in their Own Hands

In developing countries in particular, and Uganda is no exception, the administration of justice is marred by the phenomenon of members of the public taking law in their own hands. There are various explanations for this: lack of confidence in the due process of the law – that courts of law do not, in the view of the public, administer justice as they are expected and so, the offenders are not treated as the public expects. This brings in the ignorance of law and its principles of operation.

In its efforts to minimise the occurrence of this unhealthy state of affairs, the Commission, in pursuit of its function of educating the public on the operation of law, has conducted public activities through the print and electronic media and issued simplified versions of some selected laws e.g. The Local Council Courts Act, so as to make the public reasonably aware of the relevant law and its operation and to make the public appreciate the fact that the law in place is for their welfare and the courts, as the Constitution provides, are administering justice on their behalf.

Issues of Transitional Justice

The civil conflicts in Northern Uganda, over the last twenty years or so, continue to occupy Uganda's efforts, in various ways, to restore law and order and rehabilitation of victims of crime. The overall task of restorative justice, particularly in the presently war-affected areas, is involving all institutions in the justice, law and order sector. The Commission, as one of these institutions, is prominently engaged in this endeavour.

In March, 2009, a very fruitful roundtable event, on transitional justice, took place. In this roundtable the Justice Law and Order Sector institutions and Canada's Stabilisation and Reconstruction Taskforce (START) and the Canada Department of Justice and Public Safety exchanged ideas on transitional justice. Uganda benefited very significantly from this roundtable regarding the problem of the fusion of traditional justice mechanisms with the modern judicial process. The Commission is specially charged with this aspect of transitional justice and field and literature research commenced this year.

Advisory Services by the Commission

The volume and complexity of advisory services are ever continuing every year. This, unfortunately, is not matched with the human resources available in the Commission. To deal with the multiplicity of these services and as expeditiously as it is very often required, creates more burdens upon us. We are, however, comforted by the fact that the growing request for these services, sometimes not really and purely of legal nature, shows public appreciation of our statutory functions performance and it makes the Commission relevant and responsive to the issues of the day.

Improvement in the Staffing Position

The year 2009 saw significant improvement in the staffing position of the Commission for both the professional and administration departments. Many of the vacancies that were existing as a result of resignations in the previous two years were filled, including that of the Secretary of the Commission. Appointment of part-time Commissioners of the Commission is however still awaited. This puts extraordinary pressure of work on the Chairman.

Expression of gratitude

It remains for me, on behalf of the Commission Secretariat and on my own behalf to express our profound gratitude to the Government of Uganda, the Partners in Development, the World Bank, various other institutions and individuals, for the financial support and otherwise to the Commission in the discharge of its multi-farious undertakings. The cooperative involvement of members of the judiciary and the legislature and many of our key stakeholders especially those who are regular, all our sister Law Commissions have all tremendously contributed to what we have achieved. We pray and hope this conducive state of affairs will continue and intensify.

CHAPTER ONE

LAW REVISION DEPARTMENT

1.0 Introduction

Law revision is the process of updating the law without changing its substance. It is aimed at presenting the law in its correct form at any given time thus facilitating the administration of justice, law enforcement, legal education, research, law reform, efficient use of the law and access to justice.

1.1 Structure

The Department is headed by a Commissioner assisted by an Assistant Commissioner, two Principal Legal Officers and two Senior Legal Officers.

1.2 Activities of the Law Revision Department

The activities of the Department include the following:-

- (a) ensuring that the laws of Uganda are regularly revised and an up-to date status of the law is produced and made available to and accessed by the public;
- (b) preparing and publishing compendia of related laws to ensure easy accessibility of and reference to the laws;
- (c) managing the database of the revised laws by constantly updating it as new laws are made from time to time;
- (d) constantly analyzing decisions of superior courts to ascertain their effect on legislation and making proposals for review of the affected laws; and
- (e) simplifying and translating specific laws to enhance access to justice by the public.

1.3 Achievements of the Law Revision Department

The Department spearheaded the following projects of the Commission:

- (a) simplification of the Local Governments Act, Cap. 243;
- (b) revision of the hand book, "How Our Laws Are Made";
- (c) revision of the Penal Code Act, Cap.120: Standardization of fines and custodial sentences;
- (d) revision of Index of laws of Uganda;

- (e) translation of the simplified version of the Constitution into Acholi and Langi;
- (f) revision of 2001–2004 Statutory Instruments; and
- (g) revision of Principal Laws 2005–2007;

In addition to the tasks above, the Department also handled several adhoc assignments and requests for legal advice both from within and outside the Commission.

The details of the projects are as follows: -

1.3.1 The Simplified Version of the Local Governments Act, Cap.243

The Department prepared a simplified version of the Local Governments Act, Cap 243, to facilitate its use and application throughout the country.

Enacted in 1997, two years after the promulgation of the Constitution, the purpose of this law is to consolidate and streamline the existing law on local governments in line with the Constitution, to give effect to the decentralization and devolution of functions, powers and services; to provide for decentralization of all levels of local governments so as to ensure good governance and democratic participation in and control of, decision-making by the people, among other matters.

The Act has since its enactment been extensively amended to reinforce the development of devolution and decentralization of powers as enshrined in the Constitution.

In light of the fact that the Act is a widely applied legislation at all levels, the Commission in 2006, with authority of the Attorney General prepared a reprint of the Act consolidating all the amendments made after its enactment, to facilitate ease of access by local leaders and all those involved in its implementation.

The Commission also noted that because there is no minimum education level required for holding a leadership position at the lowest local levels, a number of local leaders involved in the implementation of the Act find it difficult to apply some of its provisions largely because of the continuous changes made to it from time to time making the law uncertain, but mainly because of the complexity of some of its provisions, and hence the need to have in place a consolidated and much simpler to comprehend version, clearly stating the status of the law. The draft of the simplified version was prepared for the purpose of enabling people particularly local leaders, to appreciate their roles and mandate in local government administration within their localities. As such, the use of ordinary language has been employed and certain words considered difficult to understand though not simplified have been clearly explained in the glossary.

The simplified version of the Act will be used together with the simplified version of the Local Council Courts Act, 2006 to promote the rule of law and good governance at all levels.

1.3.2 Reviewing the book, "How Our Laws Are made"

The Department carried out a review of the book "How Our Laws Are Made" to include, among other things, contemporary changes in the legislative process in Uganda as well as the East African Community.

The current edition of this book had been prepared by the Commission more than seven years ago mainly focusing on parliamentary procedure in the legislative process. The revised edition however provides a more detailed procedure of how laws are made in Uganda, right from policy formulation, identifying important stakeholders in the law making process up to when a proposed piece of legislation becomes law.

It is important to note that with the ongoing process of integration of East Africa, the Treaty establishing the East African Community has mandated the Council of Ministers, an important organ of the Community, to initiate and submit Bills to the Assembly. These Bills when passed by the Assembly become binding on Partner States.

A new part on International Law has also been introduced in the handbook, clearly stating what a treaty is, the process of ratification of treaties and how a treaty becomes law. The Commission hopes that the revised edition of the handbook will provide an up to date, elaborate and consequently, a more useful illustration of the law applicable and the procedural aspects of the law making process in Uganda today at various levels.

1.3.3 Penal Code Act, Cap.120: Standardization of fines and custodial sentences

The Penal Code Act, Cap 120 establishes a code of criminal conduct, the violation of which attracts penal sanctions. Accordingly, the Code is one of the most important laws in Uganda which encourages responsible behavior among the people.

The need to standardize the Penal Code Act was prompted first, by the Commission's vision of contributing to the rule of law and good governance through facilitating access by courts and the public in general, to the laws that are most needed in the administration of justice and secondly, the statutory mandate of the Commission to study and keep under constant review the laws of Uganda.

It is trite law that ignorance of any of the provisions of this enactment does not constitute a defense in any Court of law in Uganda. The Commission recognized the need to avail a revised and updated reprinted version of the Code, incorporating all the amendments made to it since its enactment, especially following the enactment of the Law Revision (Fines and other Financial Amounts in criminal matters) Act, No. 14 of 2008.

Act No. 14 of 2008 was enacted to cater for the fall in value of Uganda currency over the years owing to inflation and other causes, and to standardize the ratio between fines and related terms of imprisonment. The fines under the Penal Code Act had been rendered unfair and not justifiable as a result of the inflation and currency reforms, which necessitated the enactment of Currency Reform Statute in 1987.

The methodology used to revise the Code required the Department to carry out thorough research on the Penal Code Act, to high light all the provisions affected by Law Revision (Fines and Other Financial Amounts in Criminal Matters) Act, No. 14 of 2008. The work was submitted to the Law Revision Editorial Board for approval.

With the authority of the Attorney General, as required by law, a reprint of the Penal Code Act will be produced in the next Financial Year 2010–2011.

1.3.4 Update of the Index of the laws of Uganda

The Department has also embarked on preparing an updated index of the laws of Uganda as at 2010. The purpose of this publication is to provide a quick reference point for the user on the current status of both the principal and subsidiary laws of Uganda as at 2010.

The Commission last compiled an index in December, 2006 but since then, a number of laws have been repealed, new ones enacted and several others amended. The Commission therefore recognized a need to meet the demand for the updated and revised version.

The draft 2010 Index, which is arranged in alphabetical order, contains titles of all principal legislation currently on the statute book, including those that have been repealed. The titles of the repealed laws are also indicated below the repealing Acts. The Index also shows the various rules, regulations, bye laws and legal notices made under the authority of each Act, including those that have had full effect, to facilitate research. Laws made by the East African Legislative Assembly have also been added to the revised Index.

1.3.5 Acholi and Langi Translated Versions of the Constitution

The translation of the Acholi and Langi simplified version of the Constitution commenced in December 2008. The Institute of Languages of Makerere University was contracted to undertake the project and the Commission submitted the first draft to various local leaders in selected districts of Northern Uganda. Validation workshops were held in 2009 to ensure accuracy of the translated simplified version and with the objective of actively involving the local leaders in the work and as a way to achieve ownership of the translated text.

1.3.6 Report on proof reading of Statutory Instruments 2001- 2004

In December 2009, the Department commenced proof reading of the final draft of Statutory Instruments 2001-2004 in preparation for their publication. The proof reading has been completed and the publication of the laws will be undertaken by the fourth quarter of the FY 2009-2010.

While proofreading, the following guidelines were used:-

- (a) comparing the original version and the revised version to ensure that all aspects in the revised version are as stated in the original, unless revised;
- (b) ensuring that all tables and graphs correspond with those in the original;
- (c) ensuring that all cross references are cited correctly;
- (d) ensuring that all spent and repealed Statutory Instruments have an asterisk against them;
- (e) ensuring that the spacing and alignment is proper;
- (f) ensuring that there are no typing or other technical errors in the draft.

1.3.7 Proofreading of Principal Laws 2005–2007

Following the publication of the Principal Laws of Uganda 2001–2004, the Department went ahead to revise the Principal Laws enacted by Parliament between 2005–2007. Two workshops were held by the Law Revision Editorial Board to approve the texts as revised by the Department.

1.4 Plans for the year, 2010

The Department will undertake the following activities in the year 2010;

1.4.1 Research and Revision

Research and revision will be carried out under the following projects:

- (a) subsidiary legislation 2005–2007;
- (b) identification and removal of obsolete laws from the statute book;
- (c) identification of laws affected by Supreme Court decisions;
- (d) preparation of a Drafting Manual;
- (e) identification and preparation of case notes on court decisions on electoral laws in preparation for elections of 2011.

1.4.2 Publications

The Department will spearhead the following publications of the Commission during the year 2010:

- (a) the abridged–simplified version of the Local Governments Act, Cap 243;
- (b) revised version of the Penal Code Act;
- (c) the updated version of index to the laws of Uganda, 2010;

1.4.3 Simplification and Translation

- (a) translation of the simplified version of the Constitution into Ateso and Ngakarimajong;
- (b) simplification and translation of the Local Council Courts Act into Luganda.

1.4.4 Field work

2.5 Other on-going activities

2.5.1 Review of the Children Act

This was undertaken to address among others, the gaps, anomalies and emerging issues affecting children. The study culminated into several amendments to the legal framework on children including guardianship which was only defined in the Children Act, Cap 59.

The Amendment proposes to make provisions to apply to guardians as a category of persons to whom parental responsibility may be passed. It seeks to eliminate all traditional and cultural practices that are detrimental to a child's health, well-being, education or development. It also considers principles for determining harmful employment. Furthermore, specific amendment is being made relating to inter country adoption by reducing the thirty six months fostering period to twelve months and provides for interalia, exceptional circumstances under which a court may rescind an order of adoption.

2.5.2 Reform of the Law on Criminal Trial Procedure

The Trial on Indictment (Amendment) Bill, 2009 was drafted in line with the Criminal Trial Procedure study recommendations. The Bill is intended to enhance access to justice and reduce delays in Uganda's criminal justice system. It principally provides for plea bargain, pre-trial disclosure and trial by the jury. USAID organized a workshop for the Judiciary, Government institutions, Non-Governmental Organizations and legal practitioners to discuss the Bill in December 2009.

The purpose of the workshop was to internalize the Bill, receive the input of different stakeholders and receive guidance of experts from the United States of America; Justices Graham and Maryain. Participants strongly recommended that the law should be amended to interalia allow the High Court to take pleas at the first instance and to dispense with committal proceedings in impracticable circumstances. Participants also recommended that the amendments should apply to magistrates' courts considering that magistrates' courts handle most of the offences. It was also pointed out that there is need to re-introduce the need for summary of the case to avoid trial by ambush.

2.5.3 Codification of the Law of Trusts

The Commission contracted a consultant in 2006 to commence a study on the review of the law on trusts in Uganda. The law of trusts in Uganda is in pari materia the law of trusts in England of 1925. Many modifications have taken place over the years in this law in England but no review has been undertaken for the law in Uganda. The objective of the review was to bring the law in line with the current circumstances in light of the emerging areas that were previously not covered at all or not adequately covered. These include pensions, charities, unit trusts or collective investments schemes and real estate trusts, among others.

The legal authorities that currently exist are often case law from the 19th and early 20th centuries, when commercial backgrounds and business practices were very different from those of today. The laws for consideration under the review include; the Trustees Act, Cap.164, the Trustees Incorporation Act, Cap.165, the Trusts Corporations (Probate and Administration) Act, Cap. 163, the Public Trustees Act, Cap.161, the Succession Act, Cap.162 and, the Church of England Trustees Act, Cap. 158. The draft report was submitted to the Commission by the consultant in 2008. The Commission has reviewed the report and expects to finalise the project by 2010.

2.5.4 Review of the Excise Tariff Act, Cap. 338

The Commission undertook a comparative study tour to Kenya and South Africa. The purpose of this was to study the regulatory framework on customs and excise duty and the institutional frameworks for the administration of the law in theses jurisdictions. In particular, the team sought to enquire about; the existence of tax policies, taxation methods, taxing of services, mechanisms for dealing with objection and appeals, the challenges they face in the administration of excise duty and the status of existing international and regional collaboration.

Findings revealed that in both countries, there is no blue print tax policy as most of the policies are arrived at based on either the need to generate resources or intent on the need to deter use of undesirable products or services. The policies are contained in several sessional papers written by the respective Governments as well as in the national development plans; both countries visited have broadened the definition of excise to include both goods and services considered to be luxurious and have further listed excisable services in each case; it is much easier to manage a specific tax because quantum is easy to determine and tax and the method also helps to maintain stability in market pricing. The study also established that in Kenya, the compounding method is used for dealing with objections and appeals, while in South Africa, the Alternative Dispute Resolution system is used.

The team further established that there exist numerous operational challenges in the administration of taxes including tax evasion, the rigors of manual monitoring, limited implementation capacity, tariff classification, the difficulties of finding statistics on percentage of GDP and how excise lines have been running, litigation-given the few precedents and the challenge for manufacturers in having to work with several departments in handling tax issues. The Commission is currently working on the final project report.

2.5.5 The Transitional Justice Project

During the reporting period, study instruments on Traditional Justice and Truth telling were prepared by the Commission and consultations on the International Criminal Court Bill, 2006 were completed. Proposals from the consultations were presented to the Leadership Committee. The Commission is awaiting feedback on commencement of field consultations for traditional justice. In addition members of the Law Reform Department together with other stakeholders were trained on issues of Transitional Justice and participated in a study tour to Bosnia & Herzegovina, Sierra Leone and The Hague.

2.5.6 EAC activities

Among the meetings attended was the follow up regional workshop on the draft protocol to operationalise the extended jurisdiction of the East African Court of Justice. The purpose of the regional workshop was to consider the revised draft protocol and to consider inputs by the Republic of Burundi and the Republic of Rwanda and to revise the draft accordingly. The revised text would be submitted to the Sectoral Council for further consideration and guidance on the way forward.

The Commission was also represented at a follow up meeting on the Amendment of the Treaty of the East African Community. Some of the issues for consideration for amendment of the Treaty included: the definition of the community as a feature of International Law; the time table for achievement of objectives - preambular paragraph 15 and Articles 2 (2) and 5(2); commitment of the contracting parties to the Treaty (principle of "pacta sunt servanda" as codified by Article 26 of the Vienna Convention on the Law of Treaties 1969); decision making; separation of powers – (this calls for review amendments to Articles 11,12,14,15,16,18,19,21,22,71,72, and & 73); membership/participation levels of new countries - Articles 13 (2) and 13 (3); the nature of the Institutional Framework - amendment of Articles 13, 17 and 20 to provide for definite or ascertained memberships within the context of the right to vote on any decision.

The proposed amendments also touch on the roles of Coordination Committee and Sectoral Committees; establishment of the Organs and Institutions - Article 9; the role of East African Community institutions and observer groups; composition of the East African Legislative Assembly-Article 48; election of Members of the Legislative Assembly; term of the Legislative Assembly; effective Representation in the Legislative Assembly -Article 48 and 50 (1); meetings of the Organs of the Community; composition of the EACJ (Number of Judges); jurisdiction of the EACJ - Articles 23 and 27; and, appointment of Judges. In addition, the proposed amendments included aspects pertaining to strengthening the Secretariat by: (i) Amendment of Article 67(3) to clearly provide for powers and Authority of SG as the Principal Executive Officer of the "Community"; (ii) Amendment of Article 71 to emphasize the executive role of the Secretariat; and (iii) Amendment of Article 71(h) and (o) to clearly delineate responsibilities over Organ budget function management and control of finances.

The proposals also aim at recasting Article 71(j) to assure financial independence of EALA and the EACJ Areas of Cooperation. There is also need to review all the projections in different areas of co-operation in Chapters Eleven – Twenty Seven.

Furthermore the amendments also make provision for other/inadequately covered areas such as political co-operation in order to ensure the Partner States construing to democracy and the building to a Political Federation; effective representation and participation of the youth and disabled persons etc; creation of a distinct area of co-operation to cater for dissemination of information at different levels through effective media - Chapters Eleven – Twenty Six and Twenty Seven and consolidation of objectives spelt out under different provisions.

Others issues include: sources of main funding of the community; sources of funding for EAC institutions; Decision-Making; supremacy of the East African Court of Justice and removal of Judges of the East African Court of Justice. The recommendations arising out of the discussion of the proposed amendments were submitted to the Sectoral Council for further consideration and guidance on the way forward.

2.5.7 Ad-hoc Assignments

During the reporting period, the Commission worked on several ad-hoc assignments and requests for legal advice both from within and outside the Commission. Some of these requests included commentaries on Bills such as the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (Control) Bill, 2007, the Amendment to the Electoral Laws which included: the Presidential Elections (Amendment) Bill, 2009, the Parliamentary Elections (Amendment) Bill, 2009; the Political Parties and Organizations (Amendment) Bill, 2009; and the Electoral Commission (Amendment) Bill, 2009. 6. JLOS activities

The Commission continued to implement the JLOS Strategic Investment Plan – SIP II and fully participated in the JLOS Open Day and the National Justice Forum.

CHAPTER SIX

CHALLENGES OF THE COMMISSION

The Commission has significantly met its targets. However it was constrained by the following challenges:

6.1 General Challenges of the Commission

6.1.1. Insufficient resources of the Commission

The Commission is faced with the problem of insufficient funding, a situation that has negatively affected its ability to accomplish some of its planned activities such as printing of the revised laws and other publications, undertaking advocacy programmes, recruitment as well as the facilitation of staff.

6.1.2 Cost of rent for offices and storage of printed matter

The high cost of rent for offices and storage of printed material which consumes over 24% of the Commission's recurrent budget greatly affects attainment of set goals. The Commission's rent is likely to go up soon which will destabilize the budget further. It is on this basis that the Commission is aggressively pursuing acquisition of its own office premises. The Commission requires shillings 4.6 billion to buy a plot and construct the premises over the medium term.

6.1.3 Narrow Structure

The structure of the Commission is too narrow with limited provisions at the top to take care of promotions of staff who gain experience and higher qualifications. This poses great challenges of staff retention. It has led to loss of staff in some key posts as well as making it difficult for the Commission to attract new staff to the same posts because of the non commensurate salary scales. The activities are complex and some are ad-hoc in nature. This calls for more employees of different specialties.

6.1.4 Absence of part-time Commissioners

The continuous absence of the six part-time Commissioners provided for under the ULRC Act means that too much work is left to the Chairman alone where there would have been division of labour. This slows down the execution of activities in some areas.

6.1.5 Inadequate capacity to handle emerging issues

The other challenge is emerging issues in areas such as international trade, intellectual property and the changing socio-economic environment which call for specialized and continuous knowledge in a host of legal subjects. Many of these issues are complex and hence continuous legal education is essential.

6.1.6 Procurement process

The Commission finds the procedures in the procurement process very challenging and too detailed. This often leads to delays in meeting certain deadlines. The PPDA in the past promised to revise these procedures but this has not been done so far, making procurement a lengthy business.

6.2 Challenges of Law Revision Department

- (a) Delays in receiving responses from other Government Departments; the Commission works hand in hand with other Government institutions and sometimes when queries are sent to these institutions, there are delays in receiving responses yet the Commission has deadlines to meet. This therefore negatively impacts on the Commission's efficiency.
- (b) Law Revision requires a lot of technical expertise but the Department in the course of the year lost two of its senior staff and remained with only two staff until September 2009 when new staff were recruited.

6.3 Challenges of Law Reform Department

(a) The Department faced challenges of inadequate resources to handle certain assignments. An example is work concerning law on Acid Violence. This project commenced in 2008 arising from a request of the Acid Survivors Foundation. The objectives of the study are to identify the gaps and anomalies in the law, establish the strengths and weaknesses in the implementation process, make proposals for the reform of the law, make proposals for the effective implementation of the law and design a comprehensive plan of action to improve implementation of the law. A draft concept paper has been prepared together with the work plan and budget.

(b) The Department has continuously been faced with a problem of the slow legislative process in form of delay in tabling and passing Bills into law. It therefore became necessary that a mechanism be put in place to monitor and expedite the legislative process. A legislative tracking system is being developed to enhance the monitoring of the legislative process.

6.4 Challenges of Finance and Administration Department

6.4.1 Financial Challenges

(a) Budget Performance 2009/2010

During the reporting period, the Commission remained constrained with a problem of inadequate funding to effectively execute its mandate. It is important to note that there was no increment in the MTEF ceiling during the FY 2009/2010 and yet operational costs are constantly increasing. However, the under funding not withstanding, the Commission was able to execute its mandate as per the work plans. The Commission communicated the problem of under funding to the responsible agencies and it is hoped that the problem will be addressed in the near future.

(b) Wage Budget

The Commission has recruited new staff and plans to recruit even more so as to address its capacity gaps and enhance its performance in executing its mandate. Because of this, the Commission wage bill has tremendously increased and yet the MTEF wage ceiling remained the same during the reporting period. In addition, the Commission was declared "other public service" by the Ministry of Public Service and this created arrears with the NSSF for the Commission staff amounting to shs. 164 million. There is therefore need for additional funding to address these issues.

(c) Non-Wage Budget

The non-wage budget for the Commission just like the wage budget has remained the same for the reporting period. This has constrained the Commission in performance of its activities. Issues of staff welfare, gratuity payments, maintenance of vehicles and other office equipment, among others, were therefore severely affected by the shortage of resources to address them.

(d) Capital Development Budget

The Capital Development budget of the Commission also remained the same for the FY 2009/2010. This left the Commission unable to acquire the necessary equipment such as vehicles, computers, and expansion of its office premises, among others, in order to fully execute its mandate. The Capital Development budget for the Commission therefore needs to be adjusted upwards in the MTEF to allow for acquisition of the necessary equipment for better performance.

6.4.2 Human Resource Management challenges

Limited structure and staff retention; over the years, the Commission has expanded both in relation to its scope of work and in terms of numbers of staff. Emerging issues and developments have had their impact on the Commission. Current regional and international commitments by Uganda as a member of the East African Community, COMESA, Association of Law Reform Agencies in Eastern and Southern Africa (ALRAESA), African Union, United Nations, among others, have from time to time necessitated close study and scrutiny of the country's legal regime and hence constant reform. However, the Commission experiences a problem of staff turnover despite the increase in work processes.
